The Village Women's Club Fills the Shelves at Crossroads

Detroit, Mich- The Village Women's Club has made a very generous donation of new clothing, hygiene and household items to Crossroads of Michigan. Each year the Village Women's Club of Bloomfield Hills makes a large contribution of goods to a different non-profit organization. This year the group chose Crossroads as the recipient. "With the winter months just around the corner these items will be a great help to the poor in the community whose lives are made that much harder by the colder weather" says Mary Honsel, Executive Director of Crossroads.

A social and dining club founded in 1956, The Village Club offers Oakland County's women opportunities to take classes, host events, play bridge or to enjoy different programs or tours. The club has more than 1000 memberships and each requires participation in The Village Club Foundation. The foundation has given more than $1 million in grants to organizations, including Crossroads, in the tri-county areas since its inception in 1983.

Crossroads has two locations in Detroit and serves nearly 11,500 clients annually throughout the city and metro Detroit. Mary McLaren Honsel, executive director since 2001, along with a small paid staff and over 100 volunteers keep the doors open at Crossroads seven days a week.
